

Postdoctoral Research Scholar, Arizona State University, Department of Psychology

The Department of Psychology at Arizona State University invites applications for a Postdoctoral Research Scholar to join the Arizona Twin Project (ATP) under the supervision of Drs. Mary Davis, Leah Doane, and Kathryn Lemery-Chalfant. The postdoctoral research scholar will join a large and cohesive team managing the longitudinal ATP that spans from infancy through adolescence. The diverse ATP is focused on longitudinal modeling of risk (e.g., HPA axis, immune function, epigenetics, emotional dysregulation, family, neighborhood) and resilience processes (e.g., social relationships) for mental and physical health outcomes (e.g., internalizing and externalizing psychopathology, sleep, and pain). Primary duties include data management, data analysis, and writing empirical research papers. Strong professional development is provided (e.g., ethics, diversity-equity-inclusion, grant writing, faculty job applications). The ideal candidate will have experience conducting research with community samples including adolescents, strong quantitative and writing abilities, as well as aspirations for a research-oriented career.

The position is full-time, fiscal-year (12-month), benefits-eligible appointments with no tenure implications. This position is 100% research. For clinical candidates, there are no built-in clinical hours, though gaining clinical hours for licensure may be possible through the clinics at ASU outside of your committed time in the postdoctoral position. Anticipated start date is summer, 2022.

The minimum qualifications for this position are: (1) must have earned a Ph.D. in psychology or related field within the past three years, (2) evidence of advanced statistical training and data management, (3) evidence of excellence in scientific writing, and (4) expertise in one or more project research areas. The following are preferred but not necessary: (a) developmental, quantitative, or clinical specialization, (b) research mentoring/supervisory experience, and (c) expertise in genetically informed study designs such as twin studies.

To apply, please submit the following as pdf(s) through Interfolio at <http://apply.interfolio.com/104410>: (1) cover letter, (2) curriculum vitae, (3) statement of research interests, (4) two representative publications, (5) a statement addressing how your past and/or potential contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence, and (6) three letters of recommendation to be uploaded by your recommenders to Interfolio directly. Email and paper applications will not be accepted.

Inquiries concerning the search should be addressed to the Chair of the Search Committee: Dr. Kathryn Lemery-Chalfant, PhD. at klemery@asu.edu. Please mention that you are applying for the ATP postdoctoral appointment.

Initial deadline for receipt of complete applications is April 20, 2022. If not filled, review of complete applications will continue every week thereafter until the search is closed.

Salary range is $53,760.00 to $56,712.00 depending on years of previous experience.
