

Clinic Director and Clinical Assistant or Associate Professor

Arizona State University
Department of Psychology

The Department of Psychology at Arizona State University invites applications for a Clinic Director for the Clinical Psychology Center, the community-based training clinic for the department's Clinical Psychology PhD program. This is a full-time, Clinical Assistant or Associate Professor (non-tenure track) position with an anticipated start date of July 1, 2025. The successful candidate will be expected to manage the day-to-day operations of the Clinical Psychology Center. This includes: training and clinical supervision of doctoral students; teaching practicum, intervention, and assessment courses; supervision of clinic staff; oversight of clinic scheduling, billing, and budgeting; management of the clinic building and technology; establishing and maintaining relationships with referral sources; oversight of external practicum placements; community outreach; support of applied research within the clinic and broader community; and service to the department, university, and profession as appropriate. Competitive applicants will have a vision for furthering the mission and growing the reach of the clinic. This includes applying for service or training grants relevant to delivery of clinic services, implementing Medicare, Medicaid, and private insurance billing, and establishing the clinic as a crucial partner within the ASU Health system.

The Clinical Assistant or Associate Professor position includes the potential for promotion within the Clinical Professor rank. This full-time, benefits-eligible, non-tenure eligible appointment is renewable on a fiscal year basis contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the unit. The College has demonstrated commitment to working with faculty, staff, students and communities to advance the principles of the ASU Charter.

The ASU Clinical Psychology program is dually accredited by PCSAS and APA. We adhere to the Clinical Science training model, and our training philosophy is consistent with the missions of both PCSAS and APA, as we believe that sound clinical practice must have a strong basis in empirical research and that sound clinical research must be based on firm grounding of experience in clinical practice. This reciprocal training begins in the Clinical Psychology Center, which was established in 1959 as an outpatient clinic and training facility for doctoral students in clinical psychology. The mission of the Clinical Psychology Center is to provide outstanding in-person and telehealth services to our clients using evidence-based, best practices.

Arizona State University is located in the Phoenix/Tempe metropolitan area and offers all of the amenities of a large urban/winter resort area. Learn more about the Department of Psychology by viewing <https://psychology.asu.edu/>
