

Agency Background – Link for American Red Cross International Services – <https://www.redcross.org/about-us/our-work/international-services.html>

Position Summary – International Services Intern

The International Services Intern will be a vital member of the largest humanitarian movement in the world. They will assist in providing the primary services offered by the International Services Department at the American Red Cross, and they will help expand services to new communities through targeted outreach.

Purpose/Responsibilities – Responsibilities include –

- Developing a comprehensive outreach strategy to engage new communities
- Expanding community awareness of International Services offered by the American Red Cross
- Assist with providing the primary international services offer by the American Red Cross
- Collaborate with national Refugee Resettlement Agencies
- Research and database management
- Demonstrate a commitment to the Fundamental Principles of the Red Cross international network

Additional Information – The International Services Intern will have the opportunity to –

- Be a vital member of the largest humanitarian movement in the world
- Coordinate efforts among government agencies and non-governmental organizations
- Improve cultural sensitivity in a national organization
- Reconnect families separated by war, natural disaster, and migration
- Work out of the Phoenix American Red Cross Office (4747 N 22nd St, Phoenix)

Minimum Qualifications –

- Current college student
- Interest in serving our migrant/refugee community in Phoenix

Preferred Qualifications –

- Desire to support the American Red Cross humanitarian mission by reconnecting families
- Ability to work independently with diverse populations, in a culturally competent manner while embodying the Red Cross fundamental principles
- Excellent communication skills
- Completion of Restoring Family Links training requirements (Will occur during orientation)

Agency Contact – Jared Oppelt – Regional International Services Specialist

- jared.oppelt@redcross.org